Re: Foreclosure Victims Pay Attention!

Dear Foreclosure Victim:

You lost your house, but the game may not be over. Did your banker use a puffed up appraisal when your first or second mortgage was issued?

I am a patent lawyer. I lost my house to U.S. Bank based on their appraisal in 2005 that was 33% over the fair market value of my house. See www.illegaleviction.info for updates on my lawsuit against U.S. Bank.

I have teamed up with litigators to look for other appraisal fraud victims. To find out if you may be an appraisal fraud victim just go to zillow.com and look at the historic value of your house. Compare that value to your appraisal value.

If the bank's appraisal is more than $25,000 over the zillow.com estimate at that date, then send me these details.

We are trying to put a group of plaintiffs together to try to get even with those banks who broke lender fraud laws.

This lawsuit will be on a contingent basis, no money from you. We are only looking at appraisal fraud, not ownership paper/transfer or other type cases.

God Bless America.

Sincerely,

Rick Martin
